By Daily Record Staff

The Daily Record's fourth annual list of Influential Marylanders features state residents from all walks of life who are influential in a wide variety of ways and settings, ranging from restaurants to professional football to the federal bench to middle school.

The 2010 list, which appears on page 32A, includes 60 people once again — five people in each of 10 categories and one up-and-comer in each category.

In choosing this year's list, the editors of The Daily Record maintained the policy that no one would be chosen two years in a row. Also as before, no elected officials were considered because, by definition, they are all influential.

“Maryland is fortunate to have so many leading citizens who are influential in business, in government, in health care, in law and in hundreds of other endeavors,” said Christopher A. Eddings, publisher and president of The Daily Record. “Each year we are proud to recognize some of these extraordinary, influential and amazing people. We miss more than we recognize and that's the strength of Maryland — there are so many.”

The 2010 categories remain unchanged: civic leadership, communications, finance, education, health care, law, philanthropy, real estate, technology and freestyle. The freestyle category is for influential citizens who do not fit into one of the other categories.

The 2010 Influential Marylanders will be honored at a ceremony on April 21 from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Grand Lodge in Cockeysville. To purchase tickets at $65 each plus tax, go to www.mddailyrecord.com or call 443-524-8100.
